Hall farm on Cottonwood creek, a half mile from town. It has on it a double log house with gables, having a roof area of 17,840 feet. On it is a dirt road that runs north and south. It is in re-wooding. It will board, and it had completed on Saturday when the storm began. His son, a lad of a dozen years, was on the corner and he called to comb. As the whirling dipped he came to town to jump down. He was alone; clasped the comb properly to the waist to prevent being blown to the ground. Just at that instant the entire roof, rafters and all, was lifted from the building, sailing with the whirling, sailed away, taking an altitude of about forty feet to the greatest, and about 200 feet from the house; but Mr. Elliott was not there at the concussion; the roof performed somewhat over him; and was scattered a thousand fragments up the valley. So

The lad was uninjured, the board sliding out from under him leaving him sitting disconsolate on the dirt roof, while his father was abandoning him at the rate of sixty miles an hour. When it is considered that the roof contained 1,200 feet of lumber, was nailed to heavy log rafters and that the whole affair was carried off in one piece, some idea of the force of the whirlwind may be obtained. The distance given us by Mr. Claggett, who was on the spot at the time, is 100 feet. It immediately after the occurrence, the son of Mr. Elliott was a miracle.

Five paces are considered equal to a li. One man having long legs can easily go more than a li with a single step. The man with short legs would be required to step much farther than a li in order to go the same distance. It is an easy movement for him, in order to save off with a rule; then, after the man who proposes to measure by paces, he asks the other to step a li. The man can gauge his steps with sufficient accuracy to enable him to measure any piece of land by paces. Fifty paces equal a li. Five hundred paces equal a li. Five thousand paces equal a li. The eight multiplied by ten will give the number of square rods in the field. We then take the simple rule, As ten is to one, so the number of rods is to the number of li. Divide the number by five to ascertain number of li. Divide the number of number of li. Divide the number of number of rods across owned, divide the product by one hundred and sixty-four to get the number of acres. The system of measurement, the number of acres in the square plot can be determined with satisfactory accuracy.—Seoul

"What made you cry, then?"

"Well, you see," said Frank, in the sober manner, "it was dark, and I could not tell whether it was me or the pillow."

Price Essays on Butter Making.

The Agriculturist has published a price essay on butter making, by Mrs. M. A. Deane of Fairfax, Illinois. It presents the leading points of good butter making in plain language, but lacks a good deal of what is essential to the subject. Nevertheless, since we have so many poor butter-makers, and the suggestions of a price essay may have more value to some than suggestions otherwise conveyed, we give the substance of Mrs. Deane's essay.

Milk should be cooled to 40° as soon as possible after milking. Now but tin-pails cannot be used to milk in. The milk when cooled should be set in deep in pails, and kept at a temperature of 60°. This will secure all the cream. But milk is not cooled immediately after milking and kept cool, much cream will be wasted, let it be set in what way it may—in deep or shallow dishes.

It will be seen at once that a cool dairy room for summer, that can be kept warm in cold weather, is essential. It must be dry, free from odors of all kinds, even from the kitchen, and kept scrupulously clean. Without exposure to currents of air, there must be free circulation of air. Though ventilation is essential, milk things must be well washed and rinsed, and then soaked in boiling water. Hot water will not answer the purpose—it must be at a temperature of 112°.

The cream should be skimmed off just before the milk thickens. The cream is then bright and yellow, and is taken off easily. This will necessitate skimming at least twice a day. The night milk and the morning's milk will seldom be left to skim at the same time. But the night's milk may be skimmed at once, and the morning's milk at another time, all at once. To determine the proper time, milk requires experience and judgment.

The cream should be kept at a temperature of 60°, and well stirred as often as new cream is added. The cream should have a clean sour taste, when churned, but it must not be kept long. Sweet cream must not be mixed with that before churning, as it will waste by not getting sufficiently churned, sweet cream requiring more churning than sour cream does.

The temperature of the cream when the churning begins should be 60° or 65°. Then it will run about 9° by the time the butter comes, which is a good temperature for working. It is an advantage to throw a little salt into the cream, before beginning to churn. If the cows have not been well salted. The best way to salt the cream, is to use a thermometer, should be used to determine the temperature. If the butter is to be colored, it should be done by putting carrot juice or preparation of annatto in the cream.

The butter should be nearly all worked out and the butter well washed before the salt is added. Only salt enough to remove the impurity should be used. Now but the perfect salt should be put into the butter. Mrs. Deane thinks washing may hurt the flavor, and, but expresses the opinion that the loss is more than compensated by getting rid of the buttermilk. After standing a short time, the butter should be worked enough to remove nearly all the water. There should be a little salt made in a bowl of what water is left. The next day, the butter should be worked and pushed. It should not be allowed to stand longer than one day, as it turns rancid while in this condition very fast.

The difficulty lies in knowing just how much and how little to work butter. Mrs. Deane offers a few suggestions.

1st. The butter should not be too warm when worked, nor should it be so cold as to make working difficult. Immerse the lads for a few minutes in boiling water, and cool perfectly in cold water; then, if the butter in the bowl is warm enough to admit of putting the lads through the whole mass without difficulty, and dividing it up without crumbling, and salt hard enough to clean and smooth, and the slightest particle adhering to the lads, it is in the right condition to work.

2d. It should be worked with careful and gently, yet using pressure, and not by a series of indiscriminate stirrings and mashings, and grindings against the sides of the bowl. The butter is composed of minute globules, which are created by the careless handling, thus rendering the butter greasy and sticky, whereas it should retain its clean, solid individuality, up to the time of packing, always working from the bowl and never sticking in the least to the lads.

3d. The butter should not be worked until it is perfectly dry. When ready to pack, it should have a slight moisture about it, a sort of clammy moisture on the clear, brown which has been working off, and is not thick enough, so that a finger is thrust into it and it drops or two of brine will ooze out around it, and the true itself be slightly wet, as if by a slight ointment. Overworked butter lacks the beautiful consistency of the butter-makers' and is sticky; greasy in summer, and tallowy in winter; gives it a dull appearance, and a tendency to become rancid.

Butter should be packed perfectly solid, leaving no space for air. The tallow should be completely filled, and covered all-right through it is heated up. Those who send many butter to market, put it up in tins, or other styles, and their customers, or falls are used for the purpose. If true, mark is stamped on the butter, no poor butter could ever receive the mark.

ALBION HOTEL,

THE NEW ALBION HOTEL, the largest Hotel in Montreal, has just been opened under the most favorable auspices.

Specially furnished & thoroughly ventilated. Facilities for the entertaining of the house, the old price of $1.00 per day will not be departed from. We therefore speak for ourselves a continuance of the patronage so liberally accorded to our dining room.

It will be seen at once that a cool dairy room for summer, that can be kept warm in cold weather, is essential. 1st. The butter should not be too warm when worked, nor should it be so cold as to make working difficult. Immerse the lads for a few minutes in boiling water, and cool perfectly in cold water; then, if the butter in the bowl is warm enough to admit of putting the lads through the whole mass without difficulty, and dividing it up without crumbling, and salt hard enough to clean and smooth, and the slightest particle adhering to the lads, it is in the right condition to work.

2d. It should be worked with careful and gently, yet using pressure, and not by a series of indiscriminate stirrings and mashings, and grindings against the sides of the bowl. The butter is composed of minute globules, which are created by the careless handling, thus rendering the butter greasy and sticky, whereas it should retain its clean, solid individuality, up to the time of packing, always working from the bowl and never sticking in the least to the lads.

3d. The butter should not be worked until it is perfectly dry. When ready to pack, it should have a slight moisture about it, a sort of clammy moisture on the clear, brown which has been working off, and is not thick enough, so that a finger is thrust into it and it drops or two of brine will ooze out around it, and the true itself be slightly wet, as if by a slight ointment. Overworked butter lacks the beautiful consistency of the butter-makers' and is sticky; greasy in summer, and tallowy in winter; gives it a dull appearance, and a tendency to become rancid.

Butter should be packed perfectly solid, leaving no space for air. The tallow should be completely filled, and covered all-right through it is heated up. Those who send many butter to market, put it up in tins, or other styles, and their customers, or falls are used for the purpose. If true, mark is stamped on the butter, no poor butter could ever receive the mark.

LET THERE BE HARMONY IN THINGS ESSENTIAL—LIBERALITY IN THINGS NOT ESSENTIAL—CHARITY IN ALL.

No. 54

to listen, but to add their quota of experience. After singing and prayer the morning Session adjourned.

There was a larger attendance of the

S. LIOUFORNE, Esq., delivered the address of welcome, which was replete with vigils that breath and words it bore. He requested applause during the burning of the flag by Mr. Lightfoot, who eloquently spoke the feeling of the people of Stirling in welcoming the Sabbath School workers of the township to the hearths and homes.

In the absence of another who was unavoidably absent, Mr. Wm. Johnson of Belleville, was requested to open for discussion the subject, "The best modes of conducting Sabbath Schools." His address was eminence exposition of the mode adopted by the various churches of his country of England, the United States and Canada, in successfully carrying on the Schools; we regret space will not permit me extended notes of this, and the other addresses; the subject was fully discussed by Brig. T. Demarest, Major Eaton, L.

Marlin, A. Glass, McQuig and Turner, who fully endorsed the views expressed by the gentleman who opened the subject, especially the points about order, and how it may be secured. Brevity in the opening and closing exercises; the frequent singing during Sabbath School Session; the guarding of teachers against intrusion during the time they are with their scholars; keeping the school open during winter, and the necessity of having for officers men who are converted. The discussion was a profitable and interesting one, the addresses and items of experience given by the who took part in it, bringing tears to the eyes of many in the assembly.

Dr. W. W. Wagon addressed the Convention on "Temperance in the Sabbath School," graphically depicted the evils of intemperance, its effects on the body, its insupportable influence on communality, acknowledged the difficulty of saving a man who had become the slave of it, and urged on the Convention the importance of teaching the children committed to their care in the Sabbath Schools, the importance to themselves, the country and the church, of adopting Total abstinence principles. There was no mistaking the value of the Convention on the subject so far as handed by the President, the vociferous applause, and frequent "hear, hear," wh

Mr. W. Johnson, of Belleville, introduced for discussion the subject which had been assigned to him by the Executive Committee, namely: The "Classification of Scholars." In doing so he acknowledged the difficulty of the subject. He had been a good many theorists—advance views on the question, many of which, when the "practical" were taken away, were simply impracticable. There was no subject gave the thoughtful, practical, earnest Superintendent more trouble than this one, how shall I class my school; had we Normal School trained teachers, holding 1st, 2nd and 3rd cl certificates, it might simplify the difficult part of this we have not; then the scholars generally bound to the teacher by a hard indeed to sever, and this tie will belong one of the most precious blessings Sabath Schools create, certainly inferior with a graduation and classification, similar to that in our Common Schools. Still with these, and many other difficulties of the way, much may be done.

If scholars, on entering the schools, were publicly introduced and then privately examined by the Superintendent before being assigned to classes, an important step towards classification is commenced.

schools should have at least three divisions in the following: Intermediate classes and the infant class, intermediate classes or the Bible classes. In the infant, all children under eight years of age should be placed; in the intermediate, all between the ages of eight and sixteen; and in the Bible, all who were sixteen and who were commenced in the school were too big to go to Sunday School. Much may be done by perseverance, but great care has to be taken that in the transferring of scholars from one class to another, the tie of "children in the Gospel" referred to before, not be broken. For its better to leave scholars with their teacher who has been the instrument in God's hand for their conversion; even though the head band on a new instrument is more than to place them with a teacher whom they cannot love as well, even if they be more brilliant and better informed. This address was listened to with profound attention. At its close, Rev. Mr. Damerest, A. Glass, Esq., and others, took part in the discussion. The subject, though not generally given to a theorist, was practically handled by Mr. Johnson and those who followed him.

Mr. W. M. Brown, of Stirling, then read a very excellent paper on "What to teach and how to teach," which was the embodiment of the views of the men who have Insects in the Garden.

Insects, bugs, and worms have now begun to trouble our garden vegetables and our readers may wish to know how to keep them from doing so.

We have found the best way to drive out squash and cucumber bugs is to use a solution of kerosene and water. This kills the bugs and the kerosene kills the eggs. The bugs have not yet appeared in our garden.

Carbolic Acid Soap Water also kills them. No insecticide is so effective as carbolic acid. Sprinkle the plants with this.

Flour of Bone or Bone Dust has also been used with success in repelling squash bugs from the vine.

A lady destroyed the insects which infested her rose bushes by the use of quinine and water. This is a very effective remedy. The plants thrive much better after it has been applied than before.

In the report of the Alto (Illinois) Horticultural Society, quinine is recommended for destroying black and green insects in cherries. Quinine may be found in any drugstore. The solution is made by adding a gallon of water to one ounce of quinine. It will also be found effective in destroying many other kinds of insects which infest the flower garden.

Guanos on Fruit Trees.

The use of guano for fruit trees is said to combine another advantage which is its fertilizing value to the fruit grower. This is the destruction of the paper insects which have been found in the earth and emerge from there in the warm weather of spring. The covering of these insects when they come out of the ground is not hard work, and contact with a strong solution of guano destroys them. Several kinds of insects were experimented on, in order to test the value of guano in this particular. They were instantly killed when brought in contact with even weak solutions of it. Salt and whale oil soap are said to be injurious to vegetation, but by spraying guano around the tree and digging in a few inches, trees will be benefited and injurious insects destroyed. As the pupae of insects placed in the water below the reach of frost, there is but little use in applying guano until they come near the surface of the soil, about the end of May or the beginning of June.

It is said that guano is extremely effective as a manure for pear trees, causing a vigorous growth of wood and an abundance of fruit. When making experiments the best Peruvian guano should be used, and if young trees are to be manured, a little guano dug into the soil around the tree, will be made advantageous. The best mode of applying guano to fruit trees is first to ascertain the position of the young feeding roots—their distance from the stem of the tree. Then dig down in the ground; then place the guano as near to them as and as much around them as possible without letting it come in contact with them.

White Lead.

The Philadelphia Ledger says: A white lead manufacturer in St. Louis, Mo., has recently ordered from Europe, 800 tons of lead, costing at that place, freight and duties paid, $7.50 per hundred weight, or there and a half cents per pound. The present price of soft Missouri lead is claimed that the lead now mined in Missouri is inferior to the manufacture of white lead. Lead mining is also considered to be a means of securing who sink also to reach of error deposits, pebbles, or dust mineral, and success is a mere matter of chance. This kind of mining, it is asserted, has nearly exhausted the surface of Ohio and other parts of Illinois. In Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri and Arkansas, while the production of lead in the west has fallen to 11,000 tons per annum, the consumption in the West alone has risen to 15,000 tons. The consumption of lead in the United States in 1880 amounted to 50,070 tons, of which 47,500 were imported. The freight of lead may be mentioned, is very low, in consequence of the ease of shipment to obtain ballast, easily handled. Thus the freight upon lead from Europe to St. Louis including handling at New Orleans and river transportation, amounts to not over a hundred pounds, or less than the national charges for "ad" brought from the mines in Northern Illinois. The freight to New Orleans is only seven cents per hundred pounds.

"Patrick, the widow Malony tells me you have stolen one of her finest pigs. Is that correct or not?"

"Yes, your honor!"

"What you do with it?"

"Killed it and ate it your honor!"

"Oh, Patrick Patrick, when you are brought here to face with the witness, I am sure you will tell the truth!"

"Did you see the pig would be there your reverence?"

"Did you see it?"

"Well, then your reverence, I'll say, Mrs. Malony, there's a pig!"

A marrying bachelor suddenly asked if would be able to use to attempt to make love to young lady who was engaged to her sister. He said he would like the gallant at her sister's. Yes, I have plenty of money, let her rip.

A lady young lady surprised her mother on returning from a dance by saying that she enjoyed the dancing so much that she had no time to waste in waiting, and why last that a good man for it.

The general desire is to reject these laws, and will probably even them back to the Corps.

The Last Shot.

From the Christian Union, July 9

Most of our Canadian journals have advertised to Dr. Henson's letter in last week's Union, approving of his own cry. The principle of equal rights and equal favor to all religious denominations, for which Mr. Henson contends, no Ontario paper could dare to disavow. Some indeed who fully agree with us in principle think that the Wesleyan Conference makes a great fuss about a very small matter. As a friend said the other day, "I agree with you in principle, but the action of your Conference seems like taking down a can, not to shoot a flea." But it is such a trifling matter! The Ottawa Citizen appoints and pays a Roman Catholic and an Episcopalian chaplain, but treats with indignity and contempt a respectable regard from a church whose claims to regard, whether in relation to loyalty, intelligence, or industry are not inferior to either of these denominations. In this we have the germ of State pay for certain favored religious bodies. If the Government felt it to be their duty to supply religious instruction for the volunteers, they ought to have done so impartially, and without favoring particular churches.

We do not think that the people of Canada will tolerate the payment of millions of religion for teaching any dogmas, whether Catholic or Protestant. But this is not merely State pay for religious teachers, but State pay to those to whom Mr. George E. Cartier may think proper to give it. A highly respectable principle is involved here that shall never be tolerated in Canada again.

The Globe, although bound to condemn the policy of Sir George E. Cartier, is exceedingly anxious to fasten Dr. Henson's charge of having said that 15 priests went out with the expedition. If would be strange if after writing in a resolution that one priest was sent, he could in his speech have said 15 priests. The Wesleyan took the lead in battling for equal religious rights in Canada against Bishop Strachan and the old Family Compact, and they will be found as ready now as then, to retort freely and unhesitatingly any attempt to introduce the principle of making distinctions in favor of any particular Church.

Bad Blood.

Draymen about breweries drink quarts, if not gallons, of beer every day, and by the time they are forty-five the commonest result of a pot on the hand will not get well for months, if the skin is abraded or scraped off by a nail-scraper, or other accident, a running sore is sometimes established for the remainder of life. It is because the blood had been bad; too thick, and even poisonous.

Persons have bad blood when it is observed that scratches and cuts and bruises are a long time in healing; and this should be a friendly warning before the condition of things becomes so serious that it is little vitality, little strength, and little of some kind is impending, especially to the typhoid fever, and the recovery will be slow, doubtful, and in many cases not possible.

The first step to be taken in all cases to get rid of bad blood is to spend a large amount of daylight out of doors in remunerative labor or agreeable employment, in journeying, on horseback being the best; this helps nature to work the bad blood out of the body, and at the same time gets up a good appetite and a vigorous digestion, which makes a pure blood to supply the place of the bad, and the patient is well, without an atom of medicine or a dollar's expense.—Health's Friend of Health.

The Murder at Kingston.

The Kingston News of last evening gives the following particulars of the efforts to trace the murderers:

The authorities have at length been placed in possession of very reliable information in regard to the whereabouts of the murderers. On Sunday, about 9 o'clock they were sighted by a number of troops of Major David's First Frontenac Cavalry under command of Lieut. White, and fired upon, two miles this side of Ganouque. The telegram which was received from the officer in charge, by the Adjutant of the Penitentiary, Mr. Fanning, on Monday morning, does not give in detail the manner in which they were sighted or the fight which was awakened to a sense of their danger, but they must have been pursued very closely, as one of them left his horse last on the ground, where they were overtaken, and some bread and butter. They are, however, believed to be hidden in Ganouque's swamp, a short distance from where they were first discovered, and it was the intention of the cavalry that they had been increased in number by the arrival of eight men, dispatched from Mill Creek early on Monday morning to render assistance, as soon as they were sent, to surround and make a thorough search of the swamp. In reference to the bread and butter, found by the cavalry, the authorities are believed to have obtained it as follows:—A young man, a farmer, living on No. 18, in the 4th concession of the Township of Pittsburgh at the Police Station on Sunday, that he called was brought in on Sunday night, and three or four leaves of bread, a roll of butter, two peas, and an apple stolen therefrom. Tracks were discovered from the house to the road the next morning, and the thieves were captured by the constable Smith and Mann. Mr. Vanstone's resi-

The Battle of the Boyne.

In commemoration of the anniversary in BELLEVILLE.

Once again the loyal Orangemen of Kingston, Belleville and Peterborough gathered to display their loyalty and attachment to British institutions, and to celebrate the anniversary of the "crowning mercy" vouchsafed to the arms of their ancestors at the crossing of the Boyne, secured to them by the doughty deeds done by the army of William of Orange on that day.

Preparations for the reception of their visitors had been making for some weeks past by the Belleville brethren, and everything was consequently in a satisfactory way arranged for their reception.

In their arrangements, as is at all times customary, several disappointments awaited the Committee of arrangements. It had been confidently anticipated that the presence of the distinguished members of the Order from London, who are at present in the country, would have been secured; but it became known, almost at the eleventh hour, that their attendance at the Orange Council in Toronto was requisite, and that consequently they could not stay to address their brethren assembled here.

For the same reason, the Grand Master could not be present. Still, as these disappointments were made beforehand, the appointment was not so poignant; yet the defect was probably felt in a slightly lessened attendance.

THE NINETEEN QUESTION.—The business men of Madoc have resolved to accept American Silver only at the same discount as is current in Belleville and other places. The new arrangement went into effect yesterday.

CASE OF CONSCIENCE.—About six months ago a valuable gold watch with chain was stolen from the residence of the late John Wilson, Esq. Efforts were made to find it, but without success. Mr. Thos. Wilson was much surprised this morning on opening his kitchen door, to find the valuable watch and chain which was stolen six months ago, hanging from the latch. Nothing was attached to it to show, who returned it, or in whose possession it had been so long.

THE CIRCUS.—The rain which fell last night had little effect upon the attendance at the circus, which was well filled. The performances were in every way satisfactory, and some new features were introduced, which seemed to take well. The lovers of the circus were delighted with the performance of Miss Pearce, the lion tamer, with his favorite beasts, which he caused to go through a variety of performances, they being completely under his control. He concerns left early this morning for Stirling.

FROM RED RIVER.—After news has been received from Fort Garry. A good deal of excitement prevailed about the Manitoba Bill. English people think it comes too much to Bille's demands, Bishop Tache regretted it. The crop prospects are favorable, and the stores about the grasshoppers are said to have been greatly exaggerated.

SCHOOL PIC-NIC AND EXHIBITION.—A picnic in the afternoon and an Exhibition in the evening was held last Friday night in the schoolroom of St. John's, 4th con. of the township. They were well attended, and the school was highly pleased. The programme was varied and interesting and was carried out successfully, reflecting credit on the school and its able instructor, Mr. R. T. Gorman.

We understand that a considerable sum was realized towards their object, to aid in procuring maps and apparatus for the school.

Lord Cairnes especially if steps had been taken to enforce neutrality.

Lord Cairnes promised the documents concerning the war would be laid before the House as soon as they were copied.

After the dispatch of some local business the House adjourned.

In the House of Commons Mr. Harcourt made enquiry touching measures for the preservation of English neutrality.

Mr. Gladstone said the enquiry was premature, coming before the declaration of war had been made. While the Premier was speaking, a despatch from Lord Lyons was handed to him, announcing that the formal declaration of war had been sent by the French Government to Berlin.

Mr. Gladstone then replied that all papers would be submitted as soon as possible, and that a measure looking to the preservation of neutrality was in preparation. Particular attention would be paid in the measure to the status of belligerent ships in British ports.

After the discussion on the strength of the army, during which Mr. Osborne asserted that the Government was ready to put fifty thousand men in the field, the Commons adjourned.

SPEECH BY KING WILLIAM.

Paris, July 18, 8:10 p.m.—Up to this time not even a skirmish has occurred.

There is nothing certain yet about departure of the Emperor for the seat of war.

It is not likely he will set out for the front until everything is ready there for active operations.

Berlin, July 19.—Last evening King William made a speech to a great concourse of people at Berlin, who came to congratulate him. He said he was not responsible for the war which had just broken out. He might equally be passive under the outrage, but Germany, even from behind the sea had spoken. Sacrifices were sure. Prussia had been applied to by her rapid victory in two wars, and perhaps a worse fate awaited her now. He, however, knew what to hope from God, the army and the people.

road to the water, to Hogan's and crossed the Narrows in a boat. This was about 10 or 11 o'clock at night. After they crossed the water and had eaten the bread, they started right East and went about three miles, when they found themselves on a island, where they saw a lot of some poles crossed the water quarter of a mile. (The boat must have been the Isle of Man, but that is not three miles from the Narrows.) There was about mooring on Saturday. We then got into another piece of woods and stayed there until dark. All this time they probably had no knowledge that they were pursued, although they thought it very likely. A few days later, they took across the fields, starting East. About midnight Mann went to make a milk house and took some milk, bread and butter and a couple of plover, and an axe. The axe was to make rafts to cross. The dwelling house, a log one, was near the milk house, which was the

THE PURSUIT.

After they got the axe and brood, they started towards the Railroad track, not intending to go on it, but to guide them to their course. Up to this point they had not seen or heard of anyone in pursuit. This jog that they would have been pursued by Smith had thought of going to Kennelburg. But Moon thought they would be caught there. It being Sunday they kept on day through the woods, and now and then came out into the clearance to see what they were, and then returned to the woods.

woods again. Made the Railway track Gananogue and crossed the bridge near Station. Smith, at dark, saw three sitting on the Bridge. They had just their lamp at the Bridge; they said no ing to the murderers, who passed on. They were still in their shirts and drawers. Smith had the axe in his hand, and Mann carried the revolver. Smith says that if one of these men had told him to stand he would have done it, for he was tired—dead tired. When they saw the three men, Mann says they won't mind, they'll take us for railroad men. In addition to the three men who both convicts saw, Mann says he saw or three others at the foot of the hill, under the Bridge; and he says they have seen them. Seeing they were pursuing they struck the St. Lawrence river at Mann's farm, a couple of miles below Gaouque; it was moonlight. Their intention was to cross the river, but they could find a boat. They then took a more eastern course back from the river into the woods, and as they left the river they fired at, and, excepting that they shot the men on the Ganadoque bridge to be after them, this was the first knowledge of their being pursued.

did not see the man who fired at them as they ran and crossed the garden in front of Leggo's barn, and towards some place where they hid until Tuesday morning of July—no sleep all night—when they crossed the road and took to the swamps and rocks where they were hid all Monday and Tuesday nights.

and Tuesday, scarcely 20 or 30 rods from Leggo's house. There are holes in the rocks, into which they crept, and they could hear the people who were in search of them talking, and could see them right up where they were hid, and they passed them or four times over them, and while they were there a dog came to them and them, but took no other notice. It was 9 o'clock on Tuesday, when we crossed the road in sight of Leggo's house and entered the bush. They saw a man going along the road on horseback. About 9 or 10 the 14th went up a lane and Manu went into a house and took a shirt, a pair of pants, a dipper and a loaf of bread

Then went into the clearance and hid himself, and waited until night. Travel all night but saw no person. On Wed but they did not see them, or rather not follow them. They then took the way and travelled East all night, but saw person chasing them. They kept all rest of the week in the woods, going in the night until Sunday, but saw no following them. Nothing to see all time but the bread taken. During the time they were in the bush, they caught some chickens, and eat them, and they killed a lamb and eat its hind quarters.

THE CAPTURE.

On Sunday about three o'clock in morning made a lake and struck a light and built a fire to keep off the mosquitoes on the bank of the lake in a kind of swamp, a thick grove of cedars and hemlocks. The mosquitoes annoyed them so much that they could not sleep. The Indians kept them off, and they slept a little longer. At daylight on Monday they

They must have seen the smoke of the fire. To evade them, they jumped into the lake and laid down in the water about thirty feet deep, and laid hold of a stump that stood a little from the shore. They waited ed them as they approached, and were the water unseen for nearly an hour. Ma then left Smith and went swimming duv the lake shore towards the lower end the beach, and the men in pursuit caught him. Smith heard them call to Mann stop and surrender. In ten minutes the the men, who were farmers from the vicinity, came to where Smith was and made him come out of the water and give himself up. Mann told the men where Smith was. They would not have known where Smith was if Mann had not told. The men then handcuffed the convicts and

From this point they will be able to sweep all the Prussian territory to the left of the Rhine, they will then enter Prussia by way of Westphalia, and a reconstruction of the Reichsconfederation will follow."

Paris, July 20.—A meeting of citizens at the United States was held at the residence of Dr. Schmitt last night, to take measures for the organization of a Sanitary Commission.

It is proposed that the Commission shall co-operate with International and French Societies in aid of the wounded. Dr. Kraus placed at the disposal of the new organization the report of the American Sanitary Commission, and a collection of articles of substances, such as bandages, and other appliances used by the Commission during the late war. A donation of 10,000 francs was also made by the Doctor, as a nucleus for a Sanitary fund.

THE RECENT COLLISION

NAVAL SKIRMISHES

THE FRENCH MINISTER

BATTLE IN ENGLAND.

London, July 22.—It is reported that the attack on Fort Mifflin was really a collision between two remnants of French Hussars and a body of British Grenadier troops, commonly named with the name of the Crutcher command. The French allowed him to approach, regarding him as a deserter, or expecting a fight. On coming near, the Crutcher fired at the French commander, missed his mark, and turned and fled, and a shower of bullets.

Midnight.—It is reported that the French commander of Fort Mifflin and his men in the North Sea, have exchanged shots with a Russian war steamer.

The evening journals report several skirmishes yesterday between the advanced guards along the line of frontier, but give no details. It is extremely difficult to obtain intelligence from the front, as correspondents are strictly forbidden from approaching the army lines. The authorities of Brussels are, however, sending strangers to second the army of the Cathedral, because the movements of troops on both sides can be seen.

Quarters are preparing for the Emperor and staff at Brussels. Many ladies offer their services as nurses for the Emperor's army.

Paris, July 22.—It is officially announced that Bernhart, owing to the death of Pando, will remain in Washington as French Minister. He is the only French Minister who has remained in his post since the outbreak of the war.

London, July 22.—The House of Commons yesterday passed the Education Bill by a majority of 100. The bill is the twenty-first amendment of the Education Act of 1870. It is an amendment of the Education Act of 1870, and is intended to provide for the education of the poor. The bill is the twenty-first amendment of the Education Act of 1870, and is intended to provide for the education of the poor.

Daily Intelligence.

BELLEVILLE, WEDNESDAY, JULY 27

ORANGE DELAWARES—STEWART BLACKER Esq., Deputy Grand Juror of the County of Ontario, arrived in Belleville on the 27th July, from Ottawa.

MONROE BORN—It will be seen by advertisement in today's paper that Miss Macpherson will have a number of boys in Belleville in a few days. Persons wanting them will do well to apply early.

DOMINION TELEGRAPH—The wires are now being put upon the poles recently erected by the Dominion Telegraph Company in this town. This gives assurance of an early commencement of business.

TOWN TREASURER—It will be seen by the proceedings of the Town Council last night that Mr. R. P. Davy has been appointed Treasurer of the town. Mr. Davy is a very worthy young man, well qualified for the office, and we congratulate him upon the appointment.

RAIN STORM—Last night the heaviest rain of the season fell in Belleville and neighborhood, lasting from 9 o'clock until far into the morning. This morning the effect is apparent in the pools of water collected everywhere, the brightening of the tarry and the brightness of the grass and foliage. Late snow crops must benefit largely.

STROCK BY LIGHTNING—During the thunder storm of Saturday night, the house of Mr. Frank O'Connell, near Frankfort, was struck by lightning in two or three different places, shattering the windows and woodwork of the house in a terrible manner. The principal damage was done to the chimney, entering the fire in every direction, taking away a considerable portion of the roof, and in some places the roof was blown off. The post of a bed in which were Mrs. O'Connell and two of her children. One of the children was struck on the head, the track of the lightning being plainly visible from the head to the foot, having a red streak. The child was thought to be dead, but after a few moments signs of life were visible, and resuscitation being applied, consciousness soon returned. The other child was also stunned, but at last came to life and was found to be a perfect wreck. During the same storm several other places were struck in the neighborhood, and considerable damage done. Fortunately no lives were lost.

The Franco-Prussian Treaty.

The most exciting news that we have yet received from the most of war in Europe is that relating to a proposed treaty between France and Prussia. The following are its provisions:

The preamble sets forth that the King of Prussia and the Emperor of France, in order to strengthen the ties of friendship between the two Governments, have decided to conclude the following treaty:

In the first article, Napoleon admits and recognizes the sovereignty of Prussia from Austria.

In the second, the Prussian King engages to facilitate the French acquisition of Luxembourg.

In the third, the Emperor acquiesces in the action of the North German States, Austria excepted.

In the fourth, France, feeling it necessary to cheer Belgium, Prussia lends her assistance to the Prussian Government.

The fifth article is the most one of offensive and defensive alliance between the two nations.

Life is given, and nothing is said as to the time when France submitted it to the Emperor. There can be little doubt but that such a scheme of alliance would be received with favor by the Emperor.

Between Napoleon and Bismarck before Bismarck, but additional evidence is needed before we can be certain that France has revised the numerous plan. The first and third articles relate to Prussia's acquisition of Luxembourg, and it will be noted in these articles, and also that the North German States acquiesce in the Prussian Emperor's opposition to the wishes of the French Emperor, who, even now, cunningly seeks to detach them from the Prussian cause. The second and fourth articles refer to acquisitions which Prussia is desirous of making, and in the fifth article, it will be remembered that Prussia, after Bismarck, claimed it as an integral portion of the North German Confederation, and only moved out her troops after very decided resistance from the power now represented as claiming that very territory. If France has recently proposed such a treaty to Prussia, and did not Prussia make the objection known at the time? For such a one-sided scheme can only be looked upon as a kind of ultimatum, its object being to drive Prussia to war.

On the other hand the British Prime Minister, with him the legislative voice of Great Britain as if they consider the document genuine, and also that it has recently been the subject of discussion in the House of Commons, and that the British Government is not disposed to support it. On the whole, it will be a judgment to wait further developments.

Red River Expedition.

The Ottawa Times, which is supposed to speak for the Government, says, in commenting upon the late expedition to Red River in Toronto:—"The Government have never had any idea of recalling Colonel 'Wheeler's' expeditionary force, and as the relations which were passed were based upon the supposition that the expedition was a public one, it is difficult to understand why the meeting was called." Had such papers as the Leader, which is over ready to pander to any rumors that might be in the mind of the public, such as the Bishop Tache, been allowed to publish, and to indirectly advocate the withdrawal of the troops, and write in favor of what was avowed in all the Government papers to be a military mission to Canada, the probability is the meeting would not have been called, nor the resolutions passed. The same Ministers let the world know that the Leader does not speak by authority, the less said will they have to answer for. Its late somewhat, however, suggested the people of the Dominion that it was no opinion, except as directed.

Miss Macpherson's Boys.

To the Editor of the Daily Intelligence.

Mr. Editor—"The boys brought out by Miss Macpherson are expected to be able to pay back their wages in full, and to be able to employ the funds for the benefit of others, and in this way to show their gratitude for the kindness done them."

A pleasing instance took place at my house this morning. One of the boys who were working had earned some money, out of which he paid his passage from Montreal to Belleville arriving here this morning, when he handed over to Miss M. the sum of four dollars and a quarter, which was on account of his passage money, being all that was left him, and is now assisting in getting his baggage ready for the reception of those that are expected next week.

Another boy at Madoc paid in two dollars and expects to pay as much next month, while numerous letters have been received from various quarters, all expressing gratitude, and a promise to pay as soon as possible, this too from boys taken from the streets of the great city of London. May we not expect such boys will prove a benefit to our country.

Some of our townsmen, and even ladies seem to fear the arrival of what they term "street boys," and that such a number of them will do us by their gardens and fruit trees, but from what I have seen and read of the boys who are already in Ontario, I believe that they will be no more than what they are brought up, and yet to be brought by Miss Macpherson. I have no fear but that the boys who are already in Ontario, I believe that they will be no more than what they are brought up, and yet to be brought by Miss Macpherson.

CONCENTRATED LYE.

AMONGST the many imitations of this concentrated lye is one by a Druggist in Montreal, for which he has borrowed the name Extract of Soap and by the way, perhaps he can calculate as to what individual whose ideas of Mean and True are some what lax, has got the recipe of this lye so largely developed, that he has tried his hand on the majority of popular articles which have been brought out for the last few years. This imitator, this borrower of other people's names, trading on the reputation of an old established house, of which, by a strange disposition of Providence, he has got the management, is palming off his Extract on the public to place of the genuine. Purchasers will notice that the genuine has the name Extract of Soap on each tin. For sale by all the leading Druggists throughout the Dominion.

ITALY.

LOOKING TO ROME.
London, July 27.—A revolutionary intrigue in Italy is now in the air, the probable withdrawal of the French troops. A secret disposal of arms was discovered in Genoa, and a large quantity of guns and ammunition has been seized. The Pope is deeply alarmed at the prospect of France and the plots of the party of action.

"La Liberte" has the following information from the seat of war. The Prussians have evacuated Walsenburg and at Treves they have two squadrons of cavalry. They are concentrated at Mayence, where King Wilhelms arrived last night.

There is a rumor of an engagement yesterday in which 30 Germans were killed and 800 prisoners, without any loss to the French. No details of the fight or confirmation of the report have been received.

London, July 27.—Mr. Ollivier is a letter to friend here desires negotiation by France of alleged secret treaty with Prussia. The French Minister of Foreign Affairs positive denies that France has entered into the idea of annexing Belgium.

France required through Russia, on what conditions peace might be made. Prussia's reply to Russia was embodied in four words. "It is too late."

Treves, July 27.—The French yesterday visited the neutrality of Luxembourg a party numbering 100 men from Schiedel crossed to Schiedel, singing the Marseillaise.

REPUBLICANS OPPOSE FRANCE.

"DON CARLOS" EXPELLED FROM FRANCE.

FEELING IN SPAIN.

London, July 27.—The feeling of the Madrid Government was recently in favor of France, based on the satisfaction that Prussia, and not Spain, is attacked.

Republican papers denounce this tendency, and warn the Government that the people will not endure a base submission to a French ally under such circumstances.

An order expelling Don Carlos from France was purchased through intrigue by Ollivier, and with humiliating conditions.

The Spanish press regard war with reference to their dynastic interests. The Monarchists hope France will be too busy to oppose their candidates.

Prime keeps silent.
The Republicans are immovable for a Republic.

A French cruiser is off the Isle of Wight, according to all merchants.

The "Times" comments on the secret treaty. After weighing the evidence, it thinks the sincerity of the treaty fully established. It is clear both parties are involved, touching which parties should consider. The Prussian Government announces that Bismarck's autograph in the secret treaty is visible to all citizens at the Foreign Office.

A formal communication from the German Government is expected, denouncing the authenticity of the treaty and reciting other similar overtures from the French Emperor.

A despatch from St. Petersburg says the people here are furious because Prussia interprets the French and English journals.

The "Times" fears Denmark's good neighbor, standing with France is due only to hatred of Prussia.

People are losing their faith in vaccination—and in England it is denounced as a nuisance. This indicates a reaction against what, for many years, was regarded as a priceless blessing, and which now men are still disposed to consider in that light.

The result of the international yacht race causes intense excitement. The universal feeling in relation to the contest is that the speed of the yacht is as yet undetermined. When the rumor spread early that the "Dauntless" was the winner, the expectations of jubilation were subdued. The revelation was comparatively great when it was learned that the English yacht was victorious. Betting on the race was very heavy, especially on Wall Street, and among the habitués of the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

Among all the number who loved money on the American yacht was very large. There is an impression prevalent that the sailing match of the "Dauntless" took a very favorable course than the "Comet". The British racers are in high spirits, and boast the success of the "Comet" is to follow.

After eleven days' exposure in the hottest, the thermometer dropped ten degrees yesterday. Professor Thatcher says this is the end of the heated term, and a cool August is to follow.

the moment when I am about to set out for the front. I have to testify to it the confidence which I repose in it and its ability to main-that each one, according to the measure of his ability, shall add to the safety of the country."

The Journal Official also contains a correspondence from St. Petersburg, in which it is said that Russia does not expect any serious

French attacks, but that it is prepared to repulse them with much determination.

The Emperor, attended by the ladies of the of francs, and leave her free to make Rome the capital of the kingdom.

It having been reported here that several American officers desire to follow the French army in the campaign against Prussia, for the

New York, July 28.—Cassius M. James

the yacht "Camille," are staying at the Brevoort

Hotel.

The "Camille" weighed anchor yesterday morning and was towed to the Navy Yard, where she will be decked and put in order for the approaching contest for the Queen's cup.

As soon as she is repaired and painted, Commodore Aubrey will have her open for inspection. All who visit her will be cordially received.

The "Dauntless" remained anchored all day, and was visited by a large number of people.

A special meeting of the New York Yacht Club is to be held in a few days, when preparations will be made for the reception to be tendered to Mr. Aubrey. Exactly what form the reception will take is not yet known, but from the course of the Club Club fair, it may be concluded that it will be creditable alike to him and to American yachting.

The arrival of the "Sapho" is hourly looked for. Her arrival is made more probable in view of the fact that the breeze which brought her
